GLOBAL PERSPECTIVES
ON LEGAL HISTORY

Comparative law and history of law are both traditionally devoted to deepening the context of legal rules and legal institutions, i.e. to consider law in its space-time coordinates. In recent years, this trait is more and more conflicting with the tendency to present law as a depoliticized phenomenon. A group of comparative lawyers and legal historians critically discuss this assumption by examining it either from a theoretical perspective or from the point of view of their specific field of research.

Ecclesiastical institutions and actors were essential for the formation of normative orders in early modern Ibero-America. In a series of seminars, organised by the Max Planck Institute for European Legal History in Mexico City, Lima, Bogotá and São Paulo, scholars from different disciplines presented innovative studies on the history of religious normativity and its practices. Based upon the Mexican colloquium, the present volume focuses on New Spain (16th–19th centuries).
